

New Translations for Mass in English

This is the final official text for Australia and is to be implemented on Pentecost 2011.
It updates that of 22nd February 2009 which had the original official text of the new translations.
The unreformed English translation of 1970 is referred to '1970 text'.

GLORIA

COMMENT—most of the new translation is quite good.

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to people of good will.	The politically-correct 'people' for 'men' is retained from 1970, but 'good will' is restored — N.B. 'to will the good' defines charity
We praise you, we bless you, we adore you, we glorify you, we give you thanks for your great glory, Lord God, heavenly King, O God, almighty Father.	All five verbs of the Latin text are included.  Note 'adore' , not 'worship'. Latin psalms have 'adore' 18 times, our Grail psalms for Mass/Office only 3 times (and JB & RSV, not at all). The adjective 'great' is restored to 'glory'. Titles of God come after the verbs, not before, and 'almighty' qualifies 'Father'.
Lord Jesus Christ, Only Begotten Son, Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, you take away the sins of the world, have mercy on us; you take away the sins of the world, receive our prayer; you are seated at the right hand of the Father, have mercy on us.	'Begotten' is restored after 'only' ('begotten' never occurs in JB lectionary); 'Son of the Father' is not conflated with it; 'sins' : former text had 'sin' as in Greek & Vulgate, but the Mass text is the pre-Vulgate Latin of John 1:29 (cf. the Agnus Dei ). The 1970 text transposed 'receive our prayer' and drops the repetitions of 'you take away the sins of the world' and of 'have mercy on us'.
For you alone are the Holy One, you alone are the Lord, you alone are the Most High, Jesus Christ, with the Holy Spirit, in the glory of God the Father. Amen.	The doxology is unchanged. The new text, like all the translations even before 1962, fails to correct a theological difficulty: 'alone' (or 'only') really qualifies 'Holy One', not 'you'; however, this results in 'you are the only Holy-One' or '...the one-and-only Holy-One', and similarly '...the Only Lord' and '...the Only Most High'. These might express more clearly the equality of Three Persons in the One God, but could sound clumsy in English.

CREDO

COMMENT—most of the new translation is quite good.

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible.	The Latin's 'I believe' replaces the 'We believe' of the Greek. There is no 'the' with 'almighty' since it is used here as an adjective. Unlike the Apostle's Creed the Nicene always had 'maker'. The 1970 text was weaker with 'seen and unseen'.
And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven, and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man.	The second, third and fourth 'We believe' of the 1970 text is replaced by 'I believe' . As previously, 'one Lord' parallels 'one God' (cf. 1 Corinthians 8:6) & compare Apostles' Creed HO 56 ; 'begotten' is restored, as in John 1:14; 3:16; (24 times in Bible). Nicea's vital word was consubstantial , homoousios , 'of the same substance', against Arius's vital word, homoiousios , 'of like substance'; the 1970 text, 'of one Being', was inadequate. Salvation includes people not present, hence the generic 'men' , (an example of males sharing their word with women). Australia and England had already restored 'incarnate', and now USA and Canada will do so. Again, the 1970 and traditional generic, 'man' , is retained.
For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end.	This part is very like the present text, and with three sentences, but there is a slight regrouping of phrases: the present text has 'on the third day' at the start of the line.  Apart from a comma and a capital, from 'in accordance with the Scriptures' down to 'have no end' is quite unchanged.
I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets. And one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.	Nicene-Constantinople Creed of A.D. 381 enriches Nicene Creed of A.D. 325 on the Holy Spirit. As in the Gloria , 'adored' replaces 'worshipped'. The 2008 text had 'and one ... Church without 'in'. In English 'I believe in' is not often reserved to Divine Persons, but used with 'the Church' and 'angels' etc, and in affirming the existence of Satan and Hell. Yet strictly speaking, only God-Persons are 'believed in', while the Church is 'believed' as she reveals the Blessed Trinity and other supernatural realities, good and evil.

OTHER TEXTS—*italics words for priest alone.*COMMENTS—a slash / means to start a new line.

THE PENITENTIAL ACT  Brethren (brothers &amp; sisters), let us acknowledge our sins, and so prepare ourselves to celebrate the sacred mysteries.  I confess to almighty God / and to you, my brothers &amp; sisters, that I have greatly sinned / in my thoughts and in my words, in what I have done and in what I failed to do, through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault; therefore I ask blessed Mary ever-Virgin, all the Angels and Saints, / and you, my brothers and sisters, to pray for me to the Lord our God.	THE CONFITEOR  There are only two alternative and no translator's inventions. The traditional address 'brethren' is a priest's first option; 'greatly' is restored; the triple mea culpa is restored.   'Angels' and 'Saints' have capital letters.
OFFERTORY, CONSECRATION, COMMUNION  Pray, brethren (brothers and sisters), that my sacrifice and yours / may be acceptable to God the almighty Father.  May the Lord accept the sacrifice at your hands for the praise and glory of his name, for our good and the good of all his holy Church.	OFFERTORY  Responses to prayers over bread and wine are unchanged; 'brethren' is first option in the Orate, fratres 'my sacrifice and yours', which was always an option in Australia (see footnote in our first English Missal, from E.J. Dwyer), will now be restored worldwide; 'holy' now qualifies 'Church'.
The Lord be with you.  And with your spirit.  Lift up your hearts. / We lift them up to the Lord.  Let us give thanks to the Lord our God. / It is right and just.	THE DIALOGUE BEFORE THE PREFACE  'And with your spirit' always translates et cum spiritu tuo. The blunt 'right and just' aptly introduces its repetition in the first words of the Preface: it is very hard to translate.
It is truly right and just, our duty and salvation, always and everywhere to give you thanks...	THE PREFACE  The opening words restore the link with the dialogue.
Holy, Holy, Holy Lord God of hosts.  Heaven and earth are full of your glory.  Hosanna in the highest.  Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.  Hosanna in the highest.	THE SANCTUS  Sabaoth, 'hosts', is the Hebrew for the heavenly armies of angels (Isaiah 6:3); the 1970 text 'God of power and might' demythologizes the angels in their own prayer.
On the day before he was to suffer he took bread in his holy and venerable hands, and with eyes raised to heaven to you, O God, his almighty Father, giving you thanks he said, the blessing, broke the bread / and gave it to his disciples, saying:  TAKE THIS, ALL OF YOU, AND EAT OF IT,  FOR THIS IS MY BODY,  WHICH WILL BE GIVEN UP FOR YOU.	THE CONSECRATIONS  The formulas of consecration are translated accurately; 'blessing' is no longer paraphrased in 'thanks and praise'.   The principal clauses are 'Take this...' and the conjunction 'for' is restored.  Both English and Latin have big capital Bs for BODY and BLOOD, and small capitals for the rest.
In a similar way, when supper was ended, he took this precious chalice into his holy and venerable hands, and once more giving you thanks, he said the blessing and gave the chalice to his disciples, saying:  TAKE THIS, ALL OF YOU, AND DRINK FROM IT,  FOR THIS IS THE CHALICE OF MY BLOOD,  THE BLOOD OF THE NEW AND ETERNAL COVENANT,  WHICH WILL BE Poured OUT FOR YOU AND FOR MANY FOR THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS.  DO THIS IN MEMORY OF ME.	THE CONSECRATION OF THE WINE  'Chalice' replaces the common kitchenware term 'cup'; 'precious' and 'holy and venerable hands' restore the Latin. 'For many' avoids the false impression that all men are saved regardless of their relationship with Christ and His Church. It accurately conveys the truth that while Christ's redemptive suffering makes salvation available to all, it does not follow that all men are saved. (Matthew 26:28; Mark 14:24; compare Isaiah 53:11-12; Matthew 20:28; contrast Luke 12:41). 'For many' remains open to include all, but not without one's willing or participation, so as to be numbered among the "many".
The Mystery of Faith.  We proclaim your death, O Lord,  and profess your Resurrection  until you come again.	The new 1st acclamation is printed here (cf. Romans 4:25); the 2nd and 3rd are also literal translations; the 1970 text's acclamation, 'Christ has died, Christ is risen, Christ will come again', is a translator's invention and is abolished.
BEFORE HOLY COMMUNION  Behold the Lamb of God, behold him who takes away the sins of the world. Blessed are those called to the supper of the Lamb.  Lord, I am not worthy/ that you should enter under my roof, but only say the word/ and my soul shall be healed.	AGNUS DEI, "Lamb of God": its threefold text is unchanged.   After it, the priest and people's texts are literal and richer: 'supper of the Lamb', cf. Apocalypse 19:9; 'under my roof', cf. Luke 7:6; 'my soul' is no longer replaced by a pronoun.
The laity should be able to chant Kyrie eleison and Latin Sanctus, Acclamation, Agnus Dei, and especially Credo &amp; Pater noster	This Handouts includes most of the changes for the laity, but changes to the priest's prayers are much more extensive than shown here.
